

Complex Started In City

Start of construction on a $1.4 million, 86-unit apartment building at 18311 Bailey St. was reported this week at Emil J. Britt Jr. and John E. Donnelly of the Britjed Co.

Designed by W. Guy Cobb, AIBD, the Balanced Power project had been named Duo-Quorum to reflect its Roman styling and activity-oriented climate.

Recreational facilities planned for the complex includes a large swimming pool, two saunas, two fully equipped gymnasiums, recreation room, billiard and game room, volleyball court and shuffleboard area. The recreational area is highlighted by gas-fired barbecue pits.

Scheduled for completion in April, 1969, the two-story structure will include a subterranean garage and individual patios.

The 86-unit development will include 72 two-bedroom, two-bath apartments along with 14 one-bedroom, one-bath units.

Kitchens will include built-in gas ranges and ovens by O'Keefe & Merritt, disposals, and dishwashers. Among other features are wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, forced-air gas heating and decorative fireplaces in the two-bedroom units.

The Mail Ego

By Terrence O'Flaherty

"I'm tired of all this nudity and sex in movies. Why don't they start remaking some of the classics like 'Camille' and 'Don Juan'?"

The Italians are shooting a new "Camille" in Rome right now but it's not going to help you any. In her final scene, the poor lady dies in the nude, coughing on a see-through plastic mattress. The thought of a "contemporary" Don Juan staggers the imagination.

"How do movie stars react to unfavorable reviews?" Some of them claim they never read reviews but I've never known an actor who didn't. Others weep and write letters. But most of them agree with Yves Montand who said recently: "I don't mind constructive criticism, but the way some critics find fault you'd think there was a reward offered."

"I missed the recent TV interview with Justice Hugo L. Black of the Supreme Court. In this time of protest, what did he say about the matter of free speech as guaranteed in the Bill of Rights?"

He said there is a difference between speech and conduct and pointed out that the Constitution does not say protesters can assemble on other people's property. "They have a right to talk," he said, "where they have a right to be by law."

"It was wonderful to see Liberace on television recently. I'm an old lady but he makes me feel young again. Why doesn't he do another TV series — or are his talents too dazzling for an 18-inch screen?"

Compared to today's flamboyance on TV, the sequinned pianist is considered by some to be as old fashioned as Louisa May Alcott. You can decide for yourself starting in April on CBS when he replaces Red Skelton for the summer. The hour-long series will be taped in London.

"The performance of the man actor who played Heidi's uncle on television recently started a family argument. I say he is English, my wife says he is Swiss and our dog thinks he is a Labrador retriever. Who is right?"

Maximilian Schell is an Austrian who speaks English with a Swiss accent. He has never been to Labrador but he does have a good head of black hair.

"Have you seen recently in the paper that Pola Negri died?"

Not unless she died under her real name of Apollonia Chalupka. Otherwise she is still alive at age 69.

"Why all the flap about the new musical 'Hair' on the Smothers Brothers Show and everywhere else? Is it that wild and wooly?"

I thought it was just greasy kid stuff. Tom Smothers co-produced the sell-out Hollywood production.

"Some while ago I saw Jerry Lewis's son Gary on Television. What has become of this promising young man?"

The United States Army thought he was promising too — a promising soldier — and he's just getting out of uniform after two years. He and his musical outfit "The Playboys" played Disneyland for the first time two weeks ago. His father wants to remake some of the old Martin and Lewis comedies with Gary playing Jerry — but they can't find anyone to play Dean Martin.

Christmas Afloat Slated Saturday

A 45-foot float entry inviting the public to See Christmas Afloat at Los Angeles Harbor at 7 p.m. Saturday, won a first place and a second place in two of three Southland Christmas parades this season.

The gayly decorated float, sponsored by the Port of Los Angeles and the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, drew the top award in the civic entries category in the widely televised Huntington Park Christmas Lane parade Dec. 7 and second place in the Inglewood Christmas Holiday Parade Nov. 29. The float also appeared in the Nov. 27 Santa Claus Lane Parade of Stars in Hollywood.

Riding the float were four San Pedro girls, Tommasina Grieco and Candy Bird, employees of Becker Insurance Co., and Frances Spennato and Karen Blomgren of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce office.

CHRISTMAS Afloat, in its sixth year at Los Angeles Harbor, will include over 50 pleasure and other small craft ranging from 20 feet to over 60 feet in length. Awards will be made for first, second, and third place in each of five class categories, with a grand sweepstakes trophy for the best decorated boat, regardless of class.

Among interesting parade entries will be the "Ramona," a 60-foot work scow, which is transformed each year into a thing of beauty by the H-10 Water Taxi Co. In past parades, the Ramona has earned prizes for its excellence as a lighted parade entry.

GRAND Marshal of the Sixth Annual Christmas Afloat parade will be Los Angeles Harbor Commission President Paul Watanabe, aboard the Harbor Department's 42-foot launch, "Angelena."
